'Prisons and a Just Society'

2011 marked Amnesty International's 50th anniversary. Dame Anne Owers has a career background in human rights issues and tremendous experience in the Criminal Justice System and was this year's lecturer.

supporting voluntary organisations that work with offenders and their families

In her lecture her central message was very clear. A just society will probably have far fewer prisons than we currently require because it will have recognized the needs of the thousands of inadequate, damaged individuals who fill our jails before they resort to a life of crime and by investing in appropriate services for them will save us all a lot of trouble and a considerable amount of money.
